ELEVATOR ETIQUETTE.

Rules Governing the Behavior of Pagsengers in the "Cage."

When you wish to take an elevator ring the bell until the cage appears in sight. It is true that in most instances elevators move up and down continuously through the day, so that there is no absolute need of your ringing; but don't neglect to ring. The elevator man will appreciate your attention if no one else does. It is natural to suppose that he loves the chattering of the bell. He may not thank you in words, but he will remember you all the same.

When the car arrives at your landing stand immediately in front of the door. This will prevent persons in the elevator from getting out too quickly. Besides it gives you an opportunity to observe humanity hindered in its progress-a sort of study of arrested development.

Don't notify the elevator man where you want to stop until you have passed the landing. Then say suddenly, "I want to get off here." This will cause the elevator its purpose was as unknown to him as man to reverse his car suddenly, turning it might have been to a saythe stomachs of the passengers inside out and causing them to think a great deal of

Don't leave the elevator in a hurry. When you reach your landing ask the ele-vator man if he is sure he has made no that number so and so is on this floor. It may try the patience of the passengers, but patience is a virtue and should be exercised. It is always a good thing to smoke in an elevator, or at least to let your cigarsmoke an elevator and the smell of tobacco smoke may prove a counter irritant. If there are any ladies in the car of course you will not neglect to indulge in such loud conversation with your compan ion as will convince the ladies that you are a deuce of a fellow, don't yer know. If the ladies do not enjoy your talk you will enjoy it yourself. If it be possible stick your fingers through the wire side of the elevator. There is no doubt a pleasurable sensation in having one's finger broken off; and besides, it is the business of the elevator man to warn his passengers against danger. It will be interesting to see if he is attending to his

A visit was made to the school by a TRIBUNE reporter yesterday and it can hardly be comprehended that the large hardly be comprehended that the large institution of today is the outgrowth of practical sympathy on the part of a few Scranton women to assist a few deaf mutes in this city. When Henry Belin, jr., visited Philadelphia twelve years ago for the purpose of studying the methods employed for teaching the deaf no thought was entertained for any other than a sign school. His attention, however, was called to the oral method and Mr. Belin became so enthused with its practicability that the method was eventually decided

MRS. SARAH COLLINS ON TRIAL

Charged with Taking Some of Mrs. O'Connor's Household Goods. Michael Whelan Became Excited and Talked to Colonel Fitzsimmons with Vigor-Closing Testimony in Tobey Case Heard-Given to Jury.

Before Judge Archbald in the main court room, the trial of William Hull and Thomas Munk, Jr., the Carbon-dale young m-n who are charged with arson, was resumed yesterday morning. The entire morning session was con-sumed in listening to testimony for the defense. The evidence offered was for the purpose of proving an alibi.

William Hull swore that on February 10, the night the fire occurred, in company with Edward Odell, he went to the house of his grandmother and re-mained there until noon the next day. The fire did not occur until 10 o'clock on the night of February 10. Hull's testimony was corroborated by his father and mother, his two brothers and by Edward Odell. Thomas Munk, jr , swore that he was iving with his aunt at Simpsonville on February 10 About 5 c'clock on that evening he returned from work and remained in the house for the remainder of the night. His story was substantiated by Mrs. Mary Daly, his aunt, and by his cousin. Attorney Joseph O'Brien made the plea to the jury for the defense in the afternoon. He spoke an honr. District Attorney Kelly addressed the jury for the common-wealth. Judge Archbald delivered his charge and at 4 45 the case was given to the jury. CHARGE AGAINST MRS. COLLINS. Before Judge Gunster in court room Ro. 2 a case was tried that drew a large attendance of Dodgetown people. Mrs. Sarah Collins was charged with having stolen a quantity of the household goods of Mrs. Mary O'Connor, an aged lady, whose busband died last October. After his death she stored her household goods in a barn and went to live with her son. On the same lot with the barn was a double house occupied by Mrs. Collins and Mrs. O'Brien. On March 27 the barn was burned down. The allegation is that several days before the fire Mrs. Collins removed a quantity of Mrs. O'Connor's goods from the barn and stored them in the attic of ber house. At all events, an officer lins declared they were placed there by Mrs. O'Brien, who occupied the other of a cheap one. side of the house. Colonel F. J. Fitzsimmons conducted the prosecution and Attorney Charles E Oliver the defense. A large number of witnesses were examined on each side, the majorty of they are of school age. In her stead was engaged Alias Mary B. C. Brown, from the oral department of the Alabama Institute for the Deaf.

Miss Brown is still the principal of the school, and was assisted during the past school year by the following staff of teachers: Miss Jean Christmas, Miss M. Powell, Miss Frances Ress, Miss M. Powell, Miss Frances Ress, Miss Anna M. Richards, Miss K. L. Bryarly, Miss Ada King, Miss Connor

The commencement exercises of St. Mary's German and English school on whom were very garrulous. It required the combined efforts of the court and attorneys to hold them down unable to gain admittance the night before. Professor Johnson presided at the plane. The programme was rendered in a most clever and pleasing manner by the following staff of teachers: After the entertainment a social and dance was held. The choir afterward screnaded Rev. WILL MAKE HIM PROVE IT. "I'll make you prove that Fitzsimmone! I'll make you prove what you said!" he shouted. Right at that point Tipstaff Ritter interfered and Mr. Whelan subsided. A moment later Mr. Fitzsimmons referred to Mrs. O'Brien and the ire of that worthy ady was aroused.

"It's not true, yer honor! He know's its not true!" she cried as she held her babe with one hand and dramatically punched holes in the ata mosphere with the other. At 3 30 the case was given to the jury which had not agreed when court adjourned.

Prosecutors not appearing in these
